The Porsche 992 GT3 is a naturally aspirated model that signifies everything that a GT3 model stands for; from its bespoke power unit, aerodynamic achievements to its track focussed driveability, this latest variant focuses very much on the engagement of its pure performance and ultimate capabilities.

Performance wise the car is formidable, it produces 503bhp, a 0-62 mph in just 3.4 sec and a top speed of 198 mph. These achievements are attributed to the cars revised aerodynamics with its new rear wing and swan-neck connection for additional downforce, rear diffuser with large slats and a carbon bonnet with integrated air outlets.

This particular car is a UK supplied example and its single owner from new is a very high profile individual within the Formula One world. He specified the car to be finished in the stunning PTS (Paint to Sample) finish of Forest Green Metallic and ordered a plethora of factory optional extras and features that include but not limited to extensive interior leather/Race Tex
