The Maserati MC12 marked one of the great modern resurgences in motoring history. Conceived to re-establish Maserati at the pinnacle of both road and racing performance, it shared its core architecture and 6.0-litre V12 engine with the Ferrari Enzo, yet was entirely its own creation â€" longer, wider and more aerodynamically sculpted, with carbon fibre coachwork penned by Frank Stephenson and a removable targa-style roof panel that made the experience even more immersive.

Just fifty road-going examples were produced for the global market, in order to homologate the model for Maseratiâ€™s FIA GT programme. Its competition derivative went on to dominate the championship, winning multiple Constructorsâ€™, Driversâ€™ and Teamsâ€™ titles between 2005 and 2010, achievements that firmly established it as one of the most successful GT racing cars of its era.

Today, the Maserati MC12 stands as a centrepiece of any world-class supercar collection, incredibly rare, racing pedigree,

Ferrari-derived performance and all coupled with Maseratiâ€™s unique elegance.

This particular example benefits from just 339 miles from new, believed to be one of the lowest mileage examples in existence. The car also remains UK-registered and boasts a full matching number status. Offered with its factory hardtop, wheel socket, tyre inflation kit, spare bulbs and fuses, service/warranty supplement and its dedicated history file.

Just fifty Maserati MC12 road cars were produced, yet very few surviving examples can compare with this particular car.
