A 365 GTC is regarded as being one of the best all-round Ferraris ever built. It's nimble, quick and exclusive, representing the epitome of sophistication.

Only 150 were ever produced and only 22 of those were UK right-hand drive examples like this particular car.

Delivered new in February 1969, it was the very first example imported into the UK and collected from Maranello by Rob Walker. It was also the car used for the Autocar road test of the model in their May 1969 edition.

Boasting only 4 owners from new which includes one tenure spanning over 35 years and the last being of Ferrari and rock royalty. In addition the car has had over Â£155,000 spent on it at marque specialists Bob Houghton Ltd in the last 3 years alone, which included a bare metal repaint and re-trim in period correct Connolly Vaumol leather interior.

The car is also complete with its Ferrari 'Red Book' Classiche certification, which confirms it still retains its original chassis, body, engine and gearbox.

A very special example of what is an outstanding classic Ferrari.
