Unveiled in 2012 as part of McLarenâ€™s Ultimate Series the P1 represented a bold leap into hybrid hypercar territory. It stands as a defining symbol of 21st century performance, fusing Formula 1 derived hybrid technology with motorsport-grade engineering in a road legal chassis. Limited to just 375 units globally, the P1 introduced the world to McLarenâ€™s vision of the future: a hypercar equally at home on road or track, capable of delivering instantaneous electric torque with internal combustion intensity. Its hybrid powertrain produces a combined 903 bhp (727 bhp from its twin-turbocharged V8 and 176 bhp from the electric motor), propelling it from 0-62 mph in just 2.8 seconds, with a top speed electronically limited to 217 mph. It is built around a carbon fibre monocage chassis and wrapped in active aerodynamics.

This particular example is finished in the striking bespoke 'Mansour Orange' MSO exterior paint, complemented by the subtle aggression of the Stealth Pack and stealth badge set for a uniquely refined presence. Visual carbon fibre is extensively featured through the snorkel and rear clam inserts, highlighting McLarenâ€™s commitment to lightweight performance and technical artistry. It is fitted with lightweight forged wheels and carbon ceramic brakes with polished calipers.

Inside, the cabin is trimmed with carbon black Alcantara across the dashboard, door inserts, and sun visors, all accented by vibrant Volcano Orange contrast stitching that harmonises with the exterior. The steering wheel combines carbon fibre and black leather for a precise and engaging driving interface. The Meridian surround sound system enhances the refined interior atmosphere, while practical additions like front and rear parking sensors, smokers pack, branded floor mats, fire extinguisher, warning triangle and first aid kit complete this cars comprehensive specification.

It comes with its handbooks including the service/warranty supplement, spare key, battery charger, car cover and history file.

A true successor to the legendary F1, the P1 remains a landmark in automotive design, technology, and collectability and is a model we believe will perform very well in the coming years.
