The McLaren MP4/13 was the first McLaren designed by Adrian Newey and one of the most dominant models in the manufacturerâ€™s history.

This particular example was driven to victory by David Coulthard at the 1998 San Marino Grand Prix and heavily contributed towards McLaren winning the Constructorsâ€™ Championship that year.

One of only two examples in private circulation, the others being retained by McLaren and Mercedes-Benz respectively.

Retained by the factory until 2017, at which time it was one of the cars Sir Ron Dennis chose to purchase upon his departure from the McLaren Group, a testament to the carâ€™s significance.
