The Cullinan was the worldâ€™s first ever SUV to be designed with coach doors and Rolls-Royceâ€™s first ever all-terrain vehicle. Taking its name from the largest uncut diamond ever discovered it presents a dominating profile in the 4×4 world. Fitted with the same 6.75 litre twin turbocharged V12 petrol engine found in Rolls-Royceâ€™s flagship Phantom, its performance is styled with the pinnacle of luxury and has been deemed by many as the most luxurious SUV to date.

The Black Badge model took the Cullinan to a new level of refinement with styling enhancements that include its unique designed 22″ forged alloy wheels, Pantheon design blacked-out radiator grille, a new Spirit of Ecstasy mascot, black chrome and interior Infinity symbols. Its performance is also increased by a further 28bhp over the standard Cullinan boasting 592bhp and 900Nm of torque. Additional performance upgrades included oriented chassis tweaks coupled with more powerful brakes for better cooling and revised geometries to the air suspension.
