For the centennial celebration of the Ford Motor Car company they presented the GT, the retro styled sportscar in celebration of the Le Mans victories of 1966 through to 1969. The car was powered by a 5.4 litre V8 engine producing some 550 bhp complemented with the Ricardo 6 speed manual gearbox and a Helical limited slip differential which propelled the GT to a top speed of 205 mph and a 0-60 mph time of just 3.3 seconds.

During the production of the first-generation GTs, the highly acclaimed â€˜Heritage Editionâ€™ was introduced; just 343 examples were produced worldwide making the model the most desirable and sort after of all the GTs made.

The Heritage Edition car number 92 which is Â featured the stunning blue and orange livery inspired by the Gulf Oil sponsored Le Mans winning cars which also included racing stripes and racing roundels. Additional features added to the â€˜Heritage Editionâ€™ included the forged alloy BBS wheels, grey painted callipers and the upgraded McIntosh audio
