Only 123 DB5 Convertibles were ever produced and of those a mere seven featured the more powerful Vantage engine, with chassis 2109/R being one of those coveted examples.

It left the Aston Martin factory on the 14th July 1965 and was specifiedÂ with the factory optional extras of chrome wheels, a Motorola radio with power operated aerial and Fiam horns.

A matching number example that benefits from an earlier restoration carried out by marque specialists.

Offered complete with its dedicated history file which includes a copy of its original build sheet, original owners manual, jack and hammer.

One of the most desired models from the David Brown era.
