The Bugatti Veyron 16.4 is one of the most significant hypercars ever produced, redefining the boundaries of automotive engineering and performance upon its introduction. As the world's fastest production car at the time, the Veyron combined unprecedented power with remarkable refinement and everyday usability, forever changing the landscape of the modern hypercar.

At the heart of the Veyron lies Bugatti's 8.0-litre quad-turbocharged W16 engine, producing 1,001 PS and delivering its power through a sophisticated seven-speed dual-clutch transmission and permanent four-wheel-drive system. Accelerating from 0â€"62 mph in just 2.5 seconds and achieving a top speed of 253 mph, the Veyron established entirely new benchmarks for speed, stability, and engineering capability.

Combining extraordinary performance with exceptional craftsmanship, the Veyron remains a landmark model in automotive history and one of the most important hypercars ever produced.

This particular UK-supplied example was commissioned in close collaboration with Bugatti by its first owner, resulting in a highly distinctive factory specification. Every detail was meticulously selected, including its stunning Jet Black paintwork, Alcantara door panels (the only Veyron specified in this manner at the time), and Alcantara on the lower dashboard (the first Veyron to feature this option). In addition, matching-colour Alcantara was specified for the headlining and centre tunnel, alongside comfort seats, heated seats, Bugatti logos embroided into the seat backs, and black brake calipers.

Accompanying the car is an excellent, fully documented service history from new, with every service carried out by its original supplying dealer:
