With only 239 kilometres from new, which represents the McLaren pre-delivery test mileage, chassis #060 is the lowest mileage F1 in existence. Not only never driven, but never registered, by the one and only owner and is still in its factory protective wrapping. Furthermore, it is totally complete with its leather-cased owners handbooks, the Facom tool chest, tool roll with its original gold plated titanium tools, full luggage set still in factory protective wrapping, spare keys plus the ultra rare commemorative TAG Heuer watch with the chassis number engraved on the face (completely unused). In addition, the car was ordered new with special features such as a LM style spare exhaust, an additional GTR style steering wheel with F1 logo in the centre painted in matching exterior colour, passenger over-carpets and a windscreen strip, all of which have never been opened and still accompany the car. Other special order features include a removable steering wheel finished in suede, a carbon driverâ€™s seat with F1 logo, yellow insert straps on the driverâ€™s seat and the hand painted signature of F1
