A very original car that was delivered new in August 1990 to an Italian collector and stayed with that owner until 2012. A 'CAT' car that benefits from being a non-adjustable suspension example. Fantastically original throughout with all original factory markings still in place, along with the Kevlar weave very evident. The car comes complete with a very well documented history file, original books including its service/warranty booklet, original exhaust separate as currently fitted with the better sounding Tubi style, tool kit, tyre canister, original model literature and factory brochures. It also benefits from being awarded its Red Book Ferrari Classiche certification which confirms the car still retains its original Chassis, Body, Engine and Gearbox. It's very rare to find such an original example and this car should not be confused with others on the market.
