Number 585 of only 600 examples ever produced. A 4.0 RS is regarded as the purest and best interpretation of the coveted Porsche GT3 RS model to date. It is a very different car to the previous 3.8 Litre, with a peak power of 493BHP and max torque of 339 lb-ft. This version saw the introduction of more carbon fibre components, including the bonnet and front bumper, which helped reduce weight to 1,360KG. Titanium connecting rods were also used, along with the crankshaft from the GT3 RSR race car. This particular example was supplied new in Sweden where we purchased it from its first owner in 2017. We subsequently supplied the car to a very good client where it joined a very impressive collection of Porsches before recently coming back into our ownership. Optional extras include: 90-litre fuel tank, front-axle lift function, 6-point passenger seat belt, cruise control, windscreen with top tint, radio CDR-30, universal media interface, white roll cage and black floor mats. Complete with its original books, spare key, a well documented history file and presented in 'as new' condition
